DETAILED ACTION

1. Acknowledgement is made of amendment filed 9/3/09. Upon entering the amendment, claims 1 and 6 are amended and claim 2 is canceled.
2. Claims 1, 3-4 and 6-10 are pending and presented for examination.

Response to Amendment

3. In response to the amendment and the Applicants' remarks, the examiner maintains the grounds of rejection of the non-final office action mailed out 6/19/09.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 1-3 and 7-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hammon et al. (US 2004/0015012) (Hammon).

Hammon discloses a method for supplying reaction gases in a catalytic gas-phase oxidation reaction wherein an organic material to be oxidized and oxygen are mixed and supplied to a reactor, wherein the feed rate of the gases are adjusted to fall outside an explosive range when a composition of the gas changes from one point to another [0001-0002]. Additionally, the reference discloses the material to be oxidized as isobutylene, methacrolein or t-butanol [0011] (claims 1, 7-9). The reference additionally discloses that the method for supplying the gases includes adjusting the feed rate of oxygen to direct it away from an explosive range [0039-0041], and that the feed rate of the material to be oxidized is adjusted to reach a composition point while outside of an explosion range [0035-0036] (claim 2). The reference additionally discloses that the feed rates of the reaction gases will be adjusted when certain composition points are reached to avoid an explosive range [0047-0052] (claims 3 and 10).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

8. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

9. Claims 4 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hammon.

Hammon discloses that a computer is controlled by a characteristic explosion diagram [0146]. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to display the information on a monitor so that one operating the system would be aware of the reaction progress (claims 4 and 6).

Response to Arguments

10. Applicant's arguments filed 9/3/09 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. On page 7 of applicant's remarks, it is stated that the Hammon reference does not disclose increasing or decreasing a feed rate of a gas, and increasing or decreasing a feed rate of another gas. Additionally, applicants argue that the Hammon reference discloses a process wherein all gas feeds are stopped at a danger point. In paragraphs [0046-0047], Hammon describes providing individual cut-out limits for a variety of gases provided to the feed gas mixture. However, assuming that the Hammon reference discloses that all the gas feeds are stopped at a danger point, one having ordinary skill in the art could reasonably interpret this to be the same as "decreasing a feed rate of a gas, and then decreasing a feed rate of another gas", seeing that the cutting off of a feed gas is merely decreasing a feed rate to zero.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
